

Same Storyline as my prototype 1 game

1. Giant piece of cheese in the middle of the room
 - a. Player can interact with it, every bite will change the world in some way
 - i. Some rooms getting smaller
 - ii. NPC changes how they look or how they talk
 1. Broken, Mirrored, Talk differently
 - iii. Doors lead to wrong ways

NPC

1. Roach

Beginning Scene

- You live in places where nothing is meant to last.
- Everything you find is temporary.
- Everything you touch is already on its way to disappear.
- So you take from it anyway.
- You eat, and it becomes less.
- That is the only way to survive in a world like this.
- That morning, something pulls you out of sleep.
- Stomach: grrrr...
- Walk to Kitchen (Room V1)

Room V1 - Normal

- Cozy Pantry/Kitchen
- NPC: Friendly, normal dialogs
- Beginning Dialog:
 - The two legged hasn't been around for months
 - But somehow, the shelves are clean
 - (Hit first interact) You smelled something delicious, fresh juicy,
 - Its a Perfectly sliced tomato
 -
- Roach Dialog

Room V2 (If Interact)

- Objects misaligned slightly
- Room getting smaller
- NPC sprites slightly distorted
- Dialogs become confusing and weird
- Still a piece of cheese but distorted

- If Player interact with cheese, teleport to Room v4

Room V3 (If Interact)

- Player cannot go back anymore
- NPC sprite/dialog changes completely
- errors in the entire room
- You can only interact with NPC and cheese

Room V4

- Empty void
- NPC disappears
- A single piece of tomato in the middle of the void

Ending 1 (If Interact with cheese)

- Nothing left, you're trapped in the void forever

Ending 2 (If leave the cheese)

- You (The rat) wake up from your dream?
- Dialog:
 - It's gone, everything
 - Was it all just a dream?